

The garden chemicals guide

One good reason to buy for just one season

How to store and dispose of garden chemicals

household & garden chemicals

Buying "just what you need" avoids leftover chemicals which could cause harm to your family, pets and garden wildlife.

And here are a few other reasons:

- If your garden chemicals are over a year old, check they are still safe and legal to use by visiting:
www.pesticides.gov.uk/garden.asp
- Leftover chemicals that are still safe to use should be used up, as instructed on the product label
- Chemicals that cannot be used should be taken to your nearest council disposal site; alternatively, some councils will collect from your home. For more details visit www.chem-away.org.uk or contact your local council.

Leftover chemicals should never be thrown into your rubbish bin or poured down drains, sinks or toilets.
